perhaps most striking, however, is that a whopping 70 percent say that their smartphone has made their life better, with only around 6 percent saying it has made their life worse.

A common Russian diminutive of Peter; they discuss a mysterious mutual friend named John,